Along with a lot of other Elba folks, we were thinking that disasters were happening a lot more often that usual this year. Then we wondered if maybe our thinking was warped because of the one-on-one experience with one of those old gut wrenching things we don't understand that are acts of God. Then we pick up a newspaper and read that there truly is an unusually large number of those natural disasters. The floods, tornadoes and other weather related disasters are taking their toll in America.

We have a whole lot to be thankful for in Elba. Aside from the good folks who were here to help each other and those who rushed in to help us following the flood, we can't say to often just how grateful we are than there were no lives lost. We found out very quickly how fragile material things can be and how fast they can be lost. We also found that they can be replaced, where lost lives are lost forever. Each time there is news of a disaster, our heart strings are pulled a bit harder than they were a few months . because we can closely identify with the problems the people are suddenly facing. A lot of folks don't realize just how close we came to making the same kind of headlines the community in Ohio did with their long list of drowning deaths and family members still missing.

Our comments last week about Alabama politics being nice and peaceful, had to be made then or forgotten. The Democratic candidates have come out swinging and each is blaming the other for the mud slinging. Now that is politics as we have come to accept them in this state. If they don't do it, we tend to accuse them of being wimps and ignore the races! We are critical of this, but quickly admit to being just as guilty and anyone on this preciated.

We did a bit of fishing last weekend. It was awful hot and we went directly to the deep water. We have long understood that deep water is cooler in summer and warmer in winter but it still amazed us to land a fish from the deeps and feel the cool water dripping off the fish. Those we caught came mostly from water over five feet deep, though we did find some bream in the shallows about dark. In fact the last one we caught, we felt the tug and never did see the cork go underwater.

School is out and this means more children are on the streets during the day than is normal. We urge drivers to be careful, careful and more care-

Businesses and homeowner continue to make progress as they make repairs from the flood and get back to normal. Each week sees a lot of progress being made. Also there are projects which are still underway which will suddenly be complete and a lot more progress will show up.

On a personal note, the work at The Elba Clipper building will soon get underway. We are starting with a new roof and the roofers have promised to be on the job beginning July 8th. Then there are the electricians, the air conditioning folks, etc., but we will make it one day. We chose not to go the SBA route, because of all their rules. We just hope the banks don't run out of money before our work is completed!

I guess you'd call it a draw! I usually treat my wife to a day of rest and relaxation on her birthday and she returns the favor on Father's Day. This year we had a little problem; however, because her birthday and Father's Day both fell on Sunday, June 17. I got up early and went in to town to buy some biscuits so she wouldn't have to cook breakfast, we went out to eat for lunch and then for supper she fixed one of my favorite meals. It wasn't exactly what you'd call rest and relaxation, but we both had a good day!

CARDINALS CLAIM DIXIE YOUTH CHAMPIONSHIP

The Dixie Youth Baseball League crowned its new champion last week Classic is scheduled for Saturday, home-runs, and taking the crown was the Cardinals, who led the league from just about June 23, at Hawkins-Williams Park. Trophies the first week until the last. The Cards were expected to be one of the teams The tournament is expected to "Top 3" teams, with t-shirts to the to beat this season and had some very good players returning; however, the way in which the Cards demolished all challengers was a bit of a surprise, softball teams from across the southand made the league title chase somewhat of a case of "bird watching" throughout the season.

Coach Ronnie Vaughan took some kidding last year for being a little too over enthusiastic, and while he was a bit more subdued this season, he still got his message over to his players and the result was the league title. Congratulations to Coach Vaughan and his entire squad for a super season....you are truly champions!!!!

It is an exciting time for the players and their parents, but unfortunately everyone can't make the squads, and there are hurt feelings no matter how hard you try to be fair and pick only the very best players. The players who Dodgers, A's and White Sox all tied both got 2 hits for the A's, while Midon't make the All-Star teams aren't bad players, they are just those who maybe didn't hit and field as well as some others. just like Mom and Dad did up in the stands or on the field. No one ever likes to admit that their child isn't as good as another child in anything and that isn't really what being an All-Star means. Being an All-Star means that during one season there were some players who had better DODGERS 4 seasons that others.

When the All-Star teams travel to tournaments I hope all the fans and other players will support the teams with their attendance. It's a little scary to play away from home, especially when you are 11 or 12-years old, and to hear a familiar voice lending support can make a difference. See'ya there!!!!
